NEW QUESTION: 1

Your network contains an Active Directory domain named adatum.com. All domain controllers run Windows Server 2008 R2.

The domain contains a file server named Server6 that runs Windows Server 2012 R2. Server6 contains a folder named Folder1. Folder1 is shared as Share1. The NTFS permissions on Folder1 are shown in the exhibit. (Click the Exhibit button.)

The domain contains two global groups named Group1 and Group2.

You need to ensure that only users who are members of both Group1 and Group2 are denied access to Folder1.

Which two actions should you perform? (Each correct answer presents part of the solution. Choose two.)

- A. Install a domain controller that runs Windows Server 2012 R2.
- B. Deny Group1 permission to Share1.
- C. Deny Group2 permission to Folder1.
- D. Deny Group2 permission to Share1.
- E. Create a conditional expression.
- F. Remove the Deny permission for Group1 from Folder1.

Answer: E,F

Explanation:

Conditional Expressions for Permission Entries Windows Server 2008 R2 and Windows 7 enhanced Windows security descriptors by introducing a conditional access permission entry. Windows Server 2012 R2 takes advantage of conditional access permission entries by inserting user claims, device claims, and resource properties, into conditional expressions. Windows Server 2012 R2 security evaluates these expressions and allows or denies access based on results of the evaluation. Securing access to resources through claims is known as claims-based access control. Claims-based access control works with traditional access control to provide an additional layer of authorization that is flexible to the varying needs of the enterprise environment.

NEW QUESTION: 2

- A. Option D
- B. Option B
- C. Option A
- D. Option C

Answer: B

Explanation:

In the composition approach, the subclass becomes the "front-end class," and the superclass becomes the "back-end class." With inheritance, a subclass automatically inherits an implementation of any non-private superclass method that it doesn't override. With composition, by contrast, the front-end class must explicitly invoke a corresponding method in the back-end class from its own implementation of the method. This explicit call is sometimes called "forwarding" or "delegating" the method invocation to the back-end object. Note:

Composition means the same as:

*contains *is part of Note 2: As you progress in an object-oriented design, you will likely encounter objects in the problem domain that contain other objects. In this situation you will be drawn to modeling a similar arrangement in the design of your solution. In an object-oriented design of a Java program, the way in which you model objects that contain other objects is with composition, the act of composing a class out of references to other objects. With composition, references to the constituent objects become fields of the containing object. To use composition in Java, you use instance variables of one object to hold references to other objects.
