NEW QUESTION: 1

Your company has an internal Web site that requires HTTPS. The Web site's certificate is self-signed.

You have a computer that runs Windows 7 and Windows Internet Explorer 8.

You use HTTPS to browse to the Web site and receive the following warning message.

There is a problem with this website's security certificate.

You need to prevent the warning message from appearing when you access the Web site.

What should you do?

- A. From Certificate Manager, import the Web sites certificate into your Trusted Root Certification Authorities store.
- B. From Certificate Manager, import the Web sites certificate into your Personal store.
- C. From Internet Explorer, enable InPrivate Browsing.
- D. From Internet Explorer, add the Web site to the Trusted sites zone.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Certificate Manager

A certificate manager can approve certificate enrollment and revocation requests, issue certificates, and manage certificates. This role can be configured by assigning a user or group the Issue and Manage Certificates permission.

When you assign this permission to a user or group, you can further refine their ability to manage certificates by group and by certificate template. For example, you might want to implement a restriction that they can only approve requests or revoke smart card logon certificates for users in a certain office or organizational unit that is the basis for a security group.
