NEW QUESTION: 1

You are designing a Windows Azure application that will store data in two SQL Azure databases. The application will insert data in both databases as part of a single logical operation. You need to recommend an approach for maintaining data consistency across the databases. What should you recommend?

- A. Handle errors resulting from the database calls by using compensatory logic.
- B. Execute database calls on parallel threads
- C. Use Microsoft Distributed Transaction Coordinator (MSDTC).
- D. Wrap the database calls in a single transaction scope.

Answer: D

Explanation:

The TransactionScope class establishes an ambient transaction in .NET. (An "ambient transaction" is one that lives in the current thread.) All connections opened within the TransactionScope participate in the transaction. If different databases participate, the transaction is automatically elevated to a distributed transaction. The outcome of the transaction is controlled by setting the scope to complete to indicate a commit.

Note: Elastic database transactions for SQL DB enable applications to make atomic changes to data stored in several different SQL Databases.

Elastic database transactions targets the following scenarios:

* Multi-database applications in Azure: With this scenario, data is vertically partitioned across several databases in SQL DB such that different kinds of data reside on different databases. Some operations require changes to data which is kept in two or more databases. The application uses elastic database transactions to coordinate the changes across databases and ensure atomicity.

Etc.

- A. It permits Time Exceeded messages that indicate the fragment assembly time was exceeded.
- B. It permits Parameter Problem messages that indicate an unrecognized value in the Next Header field.
- C. It permits Parameter Problem messages that indicate an error in the header.
- D. It permits Destination Unreachable messages that indicate an invalid port on the host specified in the datagram.
- E. It permits Destination Unreachable messages that indicate the host specified in the datagram rejected the message due to filtering.
- F. It permits Destination Unreachable messages that indicate a problem delivering the datagram to the destination address specified in the datagram.

Answer: D,F

Explanation:

Destination unreachable is generated by the host or its inbound gateway[3] to inform the client that the destination is unreachable for some reason. A Destination Unreachable message may be generated as a result of a TCP, UDP or another ICMP transmission. Unreachable TCP ports notably respond with TCP RST rather than a Destination Unreachable type 3 as might be expected.

3 address unreachable 4 port unreachable
