NEW QUESTION: 3

What action may be performed to restrict access to an IBM Cloud domain and application to specific clients?

- A. Use the "Manage organization" menu to add the clients that need access to the application.
- B. Upload the client certificates to the DNS service provider.
- C. Use the client certificate trust store file upload option to specify a group of client-side certificates.
- D. Use the bx network route-map command to add the clients that need access to the application.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation

Explanation

You can secure your applications by uploading SSL certificates and restricting access to the applications.

Before you can upload the SSL certificates to which you are entitled with IBM Bluemix, you must create a certificate signing request (CSR) on your server.

You must upload a client certificate trust store file that defines the allowed user access to your custom domain.
