NEW QUESTION: 2

After creating a RAC One Node database using SQL statements, you want to register this database with Oracle

Clusterware as a policy-managed resource.

Which command, or sequence of commands, should you use?

- A. `srvctl add srvpool -serverpool ron -importance 100 -min 2 -max 2 -servers 016n1, 016n2`
`srvctl add db -db ron -oraclehome $ORACLE_HOME -dbtype raconenode -server 016n1, 016n2`
- B. `srvctl add db -db ron -oraclehome $ORACLE_HOME -dbtype raconenode -serverpool ron -server 016n1, 016n2`
- C. `srvctl add db -db ron -oraclehome $ORACLE_HOME -dbtype raconenode -server 016n1, 016n2`
- D. `srvctl add srvpool -serverpool ron -importance 100 -min 2 -max 2 -servers 016n1, 016n2`
`srvctl add db -db ron -oraclehome $ORACLE_HOME -dbtype raconenode -serverpool ron`

Answer: B

Explanation:

If your Oracle RAC One Node database did not register automatically with Oracle Clusterware, then use the `srvctl add database` command to add an Oracle RAC One Node database to your cluster.

For example: `srvctl add database -c RACONENODE [-e server_list] [-i instance_name] [-w timeout]`

When you add services to a policy-managed Oracle RAC One Node database, `SRVCTL` does not accept any placement information, but instead configures those services using the value of the `SERVER_POOLS` attribute.

Note: Use the `srvctl add database` command to add an Oracle RAC One Node database to your cluster. For example: `srvctl add database -c RACONENODE [-e server_list] [-i instance_name] [-w timeout]`

* -c {RACONENODE | RAC | SINGLE}

The type of database you are adding: Oracle RAC One Node, Oracle RAC, or single instance.
