NEW QUESTION: 4

A. Option A
B. Option B
Answer: A
Explanation:
DirectAccess by default enables split tunneling. All traffic destined to the corpnet is sent over the DA IPsec tunnels, and all traffic destined for the Internet is sent directly to the Internet over the local interface. This prevents DA clients from bringing the corporate Internet connection to its knees.
is DA split tunneling really a problem? The answer is no.
Why? Because the risks that exist with VPNs, where the machine can act as a router between the Internet and the corporate network is not valid with DirectAccess. IPsec rules on the UAG server require that traffic be from an authenticated source, and all traffic between the DA client and server is protected with IPsec.
Thus, in the scenario where the DA client might be configured as a router, the source of the traffic isn't going to be the DA client, and authentication will fail - hence preventing the type of routing that VPN admins are concerned about.
Reference: Why Split Tunneling is Not a Security Issue with DirectAccess You manage an Active Directory Domain Services forest that contains a root domain named contoso.com and a child domain named branch.contoso.com. You have three servers named SRV01, SRV02, and SRV03. All servers run Windows Server 2012 R2. SRV01 and SRV02 are domain controllers for the domain contoso.com. SRV03 is the domain controller for branch.contoso.com. User accounts and resources exist in both domains. All resources in branch.contoso.com are physically located in a remote branch office.
