You are the business analyst for your organization and you're working to identify all of the stakeholders within your organization and outside your organization to ensure that you've captured the correct requirements for a project. Which one of the following techniques can be best suited for identifying stakeholders?
A. User stories
B. Acceptance and Evaluation Criteria
C. Risk analysis
D. Interviews
Answer: D
Explanation:
Explanation
An interview is a systematic approach. It is used for eliciting information from a person or a group of people in an informal or formal setting by talking to an interviewee, asking relevant questions, and documenting the responses. Interviewees are also able to identify other stakeholders.
Answer C is incorrect. Acceptance and evaluation criteria are useful for identifying who has the authority to accept or reject solutions.

Answer D is incorrect. Risk analysis is the study of the probability, impact, and scoring of identified risk events. Risk analysis is the science of risks and their probability and evaluation in a business or a process. It is an important factor in security enhancement and prevention in a system. Risk analysis should be performed as part of the risk management process for each project. The outcome of the risk analysis would be the creation or review of the risk register to identify and quantify risk elements to the project and their potential impact.
Answer B is incorrect. User stories are useful to capture requirements, stakeholder attitudes, and for identifying actors and roles.
