- B. Fügen Sie in Microsoft Azure Active Directory (Azure AD) eine Unternehmensanwendung hinzu

- D. Fügen Sie im Geräteverwaltungs-Admin Center eine App hinzu.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 2

If a nation has superior conditions in which to grow coffee beans and firms are able to grow them at very low costs, which of the four major factors that Michael Porter has indicated impact the global competitive environment would allow this nation to fare better with respect to global competitive advantage?

- A. Conditions of the factors of production.
- B. Conditions of domestic demand.
- C. Related and supporting industries.
- D. Firm strategy, structure, and rivalry.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Choice "a" is correct. If a nation has a strong set of factors of production (such as low cost, high quality raw material inputs), that are required in a given industry, it will fare better with regard to competitive advantage. Choice "b" is incorrect. Conditions of domestic demand relate to the nation's domestic demand for the product, which is directly related to the ability of the nation to fare better with regard to competitive advantage. Choice "c" is incorrect. The factor of related and supporting industries deals with whether there are suppliers of material inputs that exist within a nation or whether there are rival firms who are competitive in the international environment, both of which would increase the nation's competitive advantage. Choice "d" is incorrect. The factor of firm strategy, structure, and rivalry relates to the practices of a nation with respect to how the companies are managed and organized, long with the laws of the nation that regulate the formation of the companies, and how intense the rivalry is with respect to competing firms in the nation.

NEW QUESTION: 3

A client has just received an epidural block. She is laboring on her right side. The nurse notes that her blood pressure has dropped from 132/68 to 78/42 mm Hg. The nurse's first action would be to:

- A. Turn her on her left side and recheck her blood pressure in 5 minutes
- B. Administer oxytocin (Pitocin) immediately and increase the rate of IV fluids
- C. Increase the rate of IV fluids and start O2 by mask
- D. Call the physician immediately and give dopamine IM

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation

(A) Nursing measures to support fetal oxygenation and promote maternal blood pressure would precede calling the physician. (B) Systolic pressures below 100 mm Hg or a reduction in the systolic pressure of >30% necessitate treatment. Assessing the blood pressure in 5 minutes may allow for further fetal and/or maternal compromise. Turning the client on her left side will promote uteroplacental perfusion and is appropriate. (C) Oxytocin (Pitocin) increases the strength of uterine contractions and may cause maternal hypotension; thus it is an inappropriate drug for use in this clinical situation. IV fluids would be increased to expand the circulating blood volume and promote increased blood pressure. (D) Turning the mother to her left lateral side promotes uteroplacental perfusion. IV fluids are administered to increase the circulating blood volume, and O2 is administered to promote fetal oxygenation and decrease the nausea accompanying the hypotension.
